Lenten Reflections from Reverend Sharlyn

Greetings!

As most of you know, this season of Lent has been focused so far on how God is like a Potter and we, his people, are like the clay. Unfortunately, I'm not a pro at the potter's wheel so you only get to see me struggling to create something. But the point is that our Potter is trustworthy, and is completely able to form us into his beautiful creation if we are willing to trust and to submit ourselves wholly to him. While we might become impatient for our new selves to be finished, the great news is that God, our Potter, is never finished with us! All of our lives, we can be sure that, if we are willing, He is working in us and on us. I hope you have had some time to read and meditate on the Scriptures in the Lenten Meditational Guide I gave you.

As we continue this Lenten journey we will begin to turn our focus onto Jesus and his journey to the cross. We are moving toward Palm Sunday and Holy Week. On Palm Sunday, we enter with a sense of excitement, thinking about how it was on that day when Jesus rode into Jerusalem on the colt of a donkey. People waved palm branches and threw down their cloaks to honor the one they were sure was the King - the promised Messiah.

But we know there were some who looked on with anger and determination to put an end to Jesus and all the excitement he was stirring up. Palm Sunday changes quickly into Passion Sunday as we move into the darkest week ever to be seen - Holy Week. Jesus is with his disciples sharing his last meal - the Passover Meal that is a remembrance of how God freed the Israelites from slavery in Egypt and led them through the wilderness for forty years and finally into the Promised Land. And that meal turned into a different remembrance as Jesus said, "Now do THIS - eat this bread and drink this cup - in remembrance of ME.

On Maundy Thursday we will come together for a meal, as we always do. This is the meal where we share fellowship together, just as the disciples did so long ago. And then we move to the sanctuary to remember Jesus' last meal and to share in that Last Supper ourselves.

On Friday - Good Friday - we remember how Jesus went to the cross and to his death. He did this for us, freeing us from slavery just as God freed the Israelites so long ago. Because of what Jesus did for us, we are freed from the bonds of sin. We are forgiven!

To walk through that dark week called Holy Week gives us pause to remember all that Jesus went through out of love for you and me. It is in experiencing, as much as we can, the passion and pain Jesus felt that we come to Easter with a new sense of great joy and awe. It is in Easter - the celebration of the resurrection of Jesus - that it all comes together and we are able to see ourselves as that new creation the Potter has been working on!

The journey continues ...

Rev. Sharlyn

A Message from our Associate Pastor

Can you guess one of my favorite documents to read each year? If you guessed the Church's Annual Report, then you guessed right. The reason this document is so great to read is that it shares all the hard work and effort put forth by our congregation.

This report is like a living and breathing document that shares what each of our teams and the members of our church have done throughout the year. We should all be so proud of what we have done this last year as a congregation.

Please take the time in the next few days to read through the different teams, and pastor's reports while not forgetting to review the budget. You will truly be amazed at all the work we have accomplished as a church family.

So, if you were unable to obtain a copy while attending the congregational meeting, then next time you come into the narthex look on the table or request a copy from the office.

-Pastor Shaun

From the Lion's Den

"Remember you are dust and to dust you shall return." These words from the Ash Wednesday liturgy not only remind us of our mortality, but also raise our awareness that life is fraught with transition. Transition is the process of adapting to change. Everyone experiences transition. We experience as we grow up, leave home, marry, start a family, grow old, and prepare to die. We manage transition when we move from one home to another, enroll in a new school, start a new job or career. We grieve and ultimately accept the loss of family and friends. Sometimes we choose our transitions, and at other times they choose us. Either way, transition can be a time of stress and anxiety even in joyful contexts (think of the stress of planning a wedding!).

The same is true in the life of God's people. The story of the Hebrews' sojourn in the wilderness is one of transition from slavery to freedom, full of the trials of forming a nation. The gospel stories that suffuse our worship in Holy Week follow Jesus and the disciples as they face the death and resurrection not only of Jesus, but of their hopes and dreams as well.

The transitions we face as congregations can be either sudden - like a change in pastoral leadership - or long-term, like the cultural forces shaping our role and influence in society. All of them involve five stages: (1) the original status quo; (2) a time of "unfreezing" as we react to the prospect of change and unlearn old patterns that no longer work; (3) a "neutral zone" period in which we might feel lost or wandering as we scan for new solutions; (4) a "refreezing" period in which we begin to implement the behaviors that adapt to the change; and (5) the emergence of a new status quo.

For Israel the five stages can be concisely identified as Egypt/ Exodus/ Wilderness/ Conquest/ and Canaan. For congregations in pastoral transition, they might be experienced as old pastor/ departure & early interim/ Interim (with interim pastoral leadership)/ call & "honeymoon"/ and new pastor. Each phase is necessary to navigate the change successfully. Rushing to a new pastor by compressing or omitting a phase will almost always compromise the ability of the new pastor to bond with the congregation, leading to a "de facto interim" pastorate. It is like rushing into a new marriage following divorce or the death of a spouse; we aren't emotionally ready to enter into a mature relationship between emotionally whole persons, putting the new marriage at risk.

Transitions are never easy, but approached with patience, mutual trust, and a sense of humor, they can be times of discovery and growth.

Periodically I will return to the theme of transition in my column to address how we as congregations and as a presbytery can navigate the transitions we confront both from within and without our respective communities of faith. As we head towards Holy Week and Easter, let us remember how Jesus prepared his disciples for the cross and what lay beyond: "Do not let your hearts be troubled. Believe in God; believe also in me" (John 14:1). We don't face transitions alone, but in the company of Christ and the power of his Spirit.

May you have a blessed Lent and a joyful Easter!

Worship Team

Weekly Attendance

Don't forget to fill out the blue fellowship book for our record keeping of your weekly attendance. Not only is the entry used for important data the church needs to collect for accounting purposes but it is used to learn visitors names, address corrections, etc. Thank you. Also, Worship is in need of volunteers for the next several months. Open positions include substitutes for worship leader, ushers, greeters, and Communion servers (must be an Elder of the church to serve Communion). If this sounds like something that interests you see Linda Burns for details.

Easter Lilies are available for Easter. You can sign up in the Narthex until March 13th. Single plants are $15, Double plants are $25. You can put them in memory of a loved one which will be put in the bulletin for Easter.
